THE NATION

President Johnson called a conference at his office in the White House to lecture the Congress on the procedures for asking cuts in federal spending. The President refused to yield to congressional demands that he immediately propose cuts in government spending as a condition for obtaining congressional consideration for the 10 per cent surtax he had recommended. Johnson said the responsibility for cutting expenditures as up to members of the House and Senate.

On Capitol Hill, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy (D-N.Y.), and other Democrats sought unsuccessfully to reduce federal spending by delaying the development of the supersonic jetliner sought by the Johnson administration. The dissident Democrats charged that the end result of the program would be used by only a small percentage of Americans, while other domestic programs affecting millions are mounting.

Thieves had a busy day in Florida and New York. In Miami, the gunmen forced their way into the waterfront estate of Willis Harrington Du Pont, and after a two-and-a-half hour robbing of the 33-room mansion, escaped with cash, jewels and two coins collections valued at $1.5 million. On Wall Street in New York, where two large thefts have been reported in recent months, the stock exchange reported that $1.7 million in negotiable securities was missing.

THE WORLD

Sen. Charles Percy, R-MI, considered a potential candidate for the Republican presidential nomination in 1968, got together with a bipartisan group of 24 "hawks and doves" in the Senate to lend their support to a resolution calling on President Johnson to make a more determined effort to obtain greater support from Asian countries to fight the war in Vietnam.

The foreign minister of Thailand attacked "would-be pacifists and lapsed idealists" who called for an end of the bombing of North Vietnam without demanding any reciprocal action by Hanoi.

Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York, who has thus far kept out of the great debate over Vietnam, is reported to believe that the 1968 Republican candidate should be a "dove," to give the voters an alternative to Johnson's policy of escalating the war. According to political associates, Lindsay feels that Senator Percy would be the strongest nominee, with Gov. Rockefeller a New York a close second.

In what was regarded as the most important vote cast by delegates to Britain's labor party conference, the delegates approved, by a two-to-one margin, the government's decision to apply for membership in the European economic community.

SPORTS

With the season at the halfway point, Warren travels to Meadville, Youngsville plays at Randolph-East Mead and Sheffield makes the trek to Smetheport. Jim Lorbong twirled one hit ball yesterday and Carl Yastrzemski slammed two home runs to spark Boston to a 5-0 victory over St. Louis in the second game of the World Series, evening the fall classic at one game each. Julian Javier of the Cards spoiled Lorbong's bid for only the second no-hitter in Series history by ripping a two-out double in the top of the eighth inning. Yastrzemski had a three-for-four day at the plate and drove in four of the BoSox runs. Complete Series roundup on Page 6.

Strike Disrupts Economy

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Violence tapered off in the steel haulers' strike last night as reinforced state police patrols prowled trouble spots.

Police said they had no explanation for the calm, but some expressed fears violence may erupt again.

As violence subsided, an economic vice tightened on steel producers and users in seven states. Other businesses were feeling the effects.

Fabricators, highway builders — even hospitals, grocery stores and restaurants said their lines of supply and delivery had been disrupted. The Ohio Contractors Association estimated that $154 million in highways projects had been stopped and that $81 million more in sewer and street work was being threatened.

The Western Pennsylvania Heavy & Highways Contractors Association estimated that 4,000 tradesmen have been laid off in two days because shipments of concrete have been halted.

Apparently very few steel trucks were moving. Iron Age Magazine reported the wildcat walkout by 10,000 to 20,000 drivers helped cut production by 30 per cent last month.

Other businesses were hampered sporadically as the steel haulers tried to persuade other drivers to quit in sympathy.

Sheff's deputies had to run interference to get bread trucks past picket lines for one supermarket chain north of Pittsburgh. Restaurants, and hospitals near Cleveland, Ohio, reported they were having trouble getting fresh frozen foods and meat.

But it was the steel industry that missed the trucks, which normally carry more than 50 per cent of the producer's shipments.

Mills switched to railroads when possible but cars were scarce.

Ford Now, GM Next, Says UAW Official

EDISON, N.J. (AP) — Ford now, General Motors next, striking United Auto Workers were told by a national UAW spokesman at their rally yesterday.

As soon as the Ford dispute is settled, UAW will tackle the giant GM complex, Detroit's Emilie Mazey, financial secretary of UAW told about 500 Local 980 members.

"Even if GM meets our economic package there will probably still be a strike," he said. "There are too many inconsistencies at General Motors compared to Ford or Chrysler plants; a worker has to get permission from his foreman to speak to his committee — this does not exist at Ford."

Agree on Strike Talk

HARRISBURG (AP) — Governors of five states have agreed to send representatives to a Pittsburgh meeting Monday in efforts to bring the violent steel haulers strike to a conclusion, Gov. Shafer's Office said yesterday.

Joseph J. Kelley Jr., Shafer's executive secretary who will chair the interstate conference, said affirmative replies have been received from New York, West Virginia, Michigan, Maryland and New Jersey.

Dieting for 'Twiggy' Look Ends in Death

HALMSTAD, Sweden (AP) — An 18-year-old Swedish girl who went on a diet so she could look like Britain's Twiggy died in a hospital, doctors reported Thursday.

The girl, not identified, began the diet last January, consisting of a little milk and fresh fruit. Later she developed a neurosis that made her refuse all food, the doctors said, and was taken to a hospital, where she developed pneumonia. Despite treatment, she weighed only 45 pounds at her death. Her original weight was not given.

BOSTON — The two bright young men who led the Boston Red Sox to the American League pennant, Jim Lorbong and Carl Yastrzemski, evened the world series at one game apiece yesterday by combining their glamorous talents for a 5-0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Lorbong allowed only one hit, a double by Julian Javier with two out in the eighth inning, and walked only one man as he produced what can be called the second best world series game ever pitched, surpassed only by the perfect game Don Larsen hurled for the New York Yankees in 1956.

Yastrzemski hit two home runs, the first breaking scoreless tie in the fourth inning, the other supplying the last three Boston runs in the seventh. After Wednesday's 2-1 loss to the Cardinals, in which he had gone hitless, Yastrzemski took the unheard of step of taking post-game batting practice with a few teammates. Evidently it helped.

For Boston partisans among the 35,188 spectators at Fenway Park, the nature of the victory was soul-satisfying and symbolically perfect. During the season, Lorbong had won 22 games and had led the American League in strikeouts; he was the only Boston pitcher acknowledged to be "top drawer" throughout baseball, the indispensable arm.

Yastrzemski won the triple crown — leading the league in home runs, runs batted in and batting average — and reached his peak in clutch hitting during the exciting stretch

U.S. Jets Strike Again at Haiphong, Bridge Near China

By EDWIN Q. WHITE
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. warplanes struck hard at targets in Haiphong for the second day in a row yesterday in an intensified campaign to isolate the key port city, the American Command reported today.

And for the third day in a row, jets streaked to within a minute's flying time of the Red Chinese border to hammer a railroad bridge only 10 miles away.

North Vietnam claimed six U.S. planes were shot down during the heavy raids yesterday and several American pilots were captured.

U.S. headquarters made no mention of any planes lost, under its policy of withholding announcement of American losses over the North when it believes the information may aid the enemy or jeopardize attempts to

Shafer Says State Needs Transport Plan

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Gov. Shafer said yesterday Pennsylvania needs a master plan for transportation to insure the state's future growth and prosperity.

Shafer, speaking at the first Pennsylvania Highway Transportation Conference, said he has appointed a committee to formulate such a plan to coordinate all aspects of transportation under a single agency.

His remarks were contained in a speech prepared for delivery during the conference.

"If we are to have a master plan," Shafer said, "then we cannot have highway construction handled in one department, mass transit policy set in another, and waterway transportation development in still another."

The intensified air strikes and a rising number of allied ground sweeps in South Vietnam reflected the active pace of a war in which American casualties have now exceeded 100,000.

Raids over North Vietnam this week have at times been aimed at targets previously exempt from attack.

In yesterday's raids, U.S. Navy pilots from the carriers Constellation and Intrepid hit two targets in Haiphong, both of which had been attacked in prior raids.

The legs and arms were cut from the body. The feet and the right hand were burned with acid, police said, apparently to prevent identification.

The victim was believed to have been a male 27 to 30 years old. An autopsy was ordered.

Astronaut Dies in Jet Crash

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — One of the nation's astronauts, Marine Maj. Clifton Curtis Williams Jr., was killed yesterday when his T-38 jet plane smashed into a wooded area near the Florida-Georgia border and exploded.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Williams was alone in the craft when it plunged to Earth and disintegrated.

Air Force Maj. Joe Johnson of Moody Air Force Base, Valdosta, Ga., said Williams' body was recovered by members of a Moody helicopter crew that arrived at the crash scene 10 minutes after getting a Mayday call from Williams.

Maj. Johnson said only shedded wreckage was found at the bottom of the 15-foot crater dug by the crash impact. The crashsite is about 20 miles northeast of Tallahassee.

Williams, 35, who liked to be called "C.C." by his fellow astronauts, was en route from Patrick Air Force Base near Cape Kennedy to Brookley Air Force Base, Ala., near Mobile.

Medicare Enrollment Period Starts

The Medicare general enrollment period has started and the opportunity to enroll in the medical insurance plan is once again available to everyone age 65 or older.

This announcement is made by the Jamestown social security office and is of special importance to those who did not enroll when they first reached their 65th birthday.

Medicare's medical insurance plan provides reimbursement for physicians' services, home health services and many other medical services and supplies. It is paid for by a monthly premium which is matched by the Federal government.

A general enrollment period is provided by law and occurs in every odd-numbered year. It is designed to give a second chance to people who either missed their first opportunity when they reached age 65, or have changed their minds. The higher cost of insuring a person who did not enroll at age 65 will require these people to pay a higher monthly premium and their insurance protection will begin in July 1968.

Detailed information about this general enrollment period and Medicare can be obtained at the Jamestown social security office which is open until 8 p.m. on Friday evening, in addition to its regular office hours.

Hippie Movement At Death's Door

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Ron Thelin says the hippie movement is at death's door.

Thelin operates the Psychedelic Shop, main hippie gathering place in the Haight-Ashbury district. The flower children have been so inactive lately he's going broke.

Some $6,000 in debt, Thelin plans to close the store Friday.

Aid a three-day "death of a hippie" observance is planned by Thelin and others culminating in a funeral procession with a symbolic casket to be borne through the district Sunday.

The open coffin will contain abandoned trappings of hippie life, including shaven beards, wilted flowers, discarded marijuana and sandals.

Thelin believes the hippies have grown tired of conforming to the image created by news media. He said, "Haight-Ashbury was apportioned to us by the news media and police. The tourists came to the zoo to see the captive animals and we growled fiercely behind the bars we accepted."

Last spring Thelin predicted that 100,000 flower children would flock to San Francisco for a "summer of love."

Large numbers arrived, all right, but few stayed.

San Francisco's chilly, foggy summer weather had something to do with it. Camping out in Golden Gate Park adjacent to Haight-Ashbury proved uncomfortable.

The hippie movement was hard hit, too, by hepatitis and venereal disease.

A free Haight-Ashbury medical clinic closed three weeks ago, its staff broke and exhausted. Dr. Ellis Sox, the city's public health director, declined to take over the operation.

Beards, bare feet and outlandish garb are still to be seen in Haight-Ashbury, but Thelin declared "the spirit is gone."

Police said a big increase has been noted recently in hippies gathered at certain intersections to hitchhike rides out of town.

Where are the flower children going?

With few exceptions those queried informally by officers have given the same answer: Home.

Says MacArthur Sought China War

BY RELMAN MORIN
AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — The late Gen. Douglas MacArthur advocated waging a "preventive war" against Communist China in 1951, and, if necessary, an attack on the Soviet Union, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway asserts in his book "The Korean War," published today.

"What MacArthur sought was, plainly, a preventive war—the destruction of China's war-making potential, regardless of the danger that such an effort might bring in her overrunning of Europe," Ridgway wrote. "His plan therefore entailed the very considerable risk of igniting World War III."

If Moscow did intervene to help Red China, Ridgway continues, "it is not illogical to assume that MacArthur would have urged the further step of an attack on the USSR. This would have been merely the logical extension of his ultimate aim, the destruction of Communism throughout the world by the use of armed force."

Ridgway, commanding the United Nations Eighth Army in Korea, engineered the victorious northward advance after the disasters at the end of 1950. Then, when President Truman fired MacArthur in April, 1951, Ridgway became Supreme Commander, Far East.

Ridgway says in his book that the Pentagon attached a provision to the instructions given MacArthur to attack north of the 38th Parallel, the demarcation line between South and North Korea.

"For his authority to conduct operations north of the border, radioed to him on Sept. 27, was contingent upon the provision that there has been no entry into North Korea by major Soviet or Communist Chinese forces, no announcement of intended entry, nor a threat to counter our operations militarily in Korea," Ridgway says.

By mid-October, war correspondents reported the capture of Chinese soldiers in uniform with regimental numbers. Peking called them "volunteers" and Ridgway suggests that MacArthur turned a blind eye to the fact of Chinese intervention: "How could any man, not obsessed with his own reputation, have persisted in misinterpreting detailed intelligence reports and actual events in the battlefield—not merely the taking of large numbers of Chinese prisoners... but the brutal mauling of a U.S. Regimental Combat Team and the near annihilation of a ROK Republic of Korea Division?"

While critical of MacArthur in a number of instances, Ridgway says, "He was truly one of the great captains of warfare." He calls MacArthur's brilliant maneuver in landing U.S. Marines at Inchon, well north of the North Korean lines, a "5,000-to-1 gamble."

"A more subtle result of the Inchon triumph was the development of an almost superstitious regard for Gen. MacArthur's infallibility," he adds. "Even his superiors, it seemed, began to doubt if they should question any of MacArthur's decisions...."

flationary spiral with higher prices "across the board."

While some members of Congress are talking about cutting planned federal spending by $5 billion to $10 billion, Johnson said his January budget, calling for outlays of $136 billion in the 1968 fiscal year that began July 1, was "carefully drawn, fiscally responsible and prudent."

But, in any case, he kept repeating, the administration cannot intelligently decide where to cut spending plans until Congress passes this year's appropriations bills.

Action on 10 such measures is pending. Only four have been enacted.

Once a bill is passed, Johnson emphasized, the Budget Bureau and Cabinet officials are prepared to sit down promptly with appropriate congressional committees to decide where economies might be possible.

Resolution Gets

Opposition

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bipartisan resolution calling for greater efforts by President Johnson to obtain more help from Asian nations for the Vietnam war ran into bipartisan opposition yesterday.

"I think it's full of mischief," Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said of the proposition sponsored by his Illinois GOP colleague, Charles H. Percy.

Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., suggested the resolution could hamper efforts to bring about a greater contribution from the Asian countries.

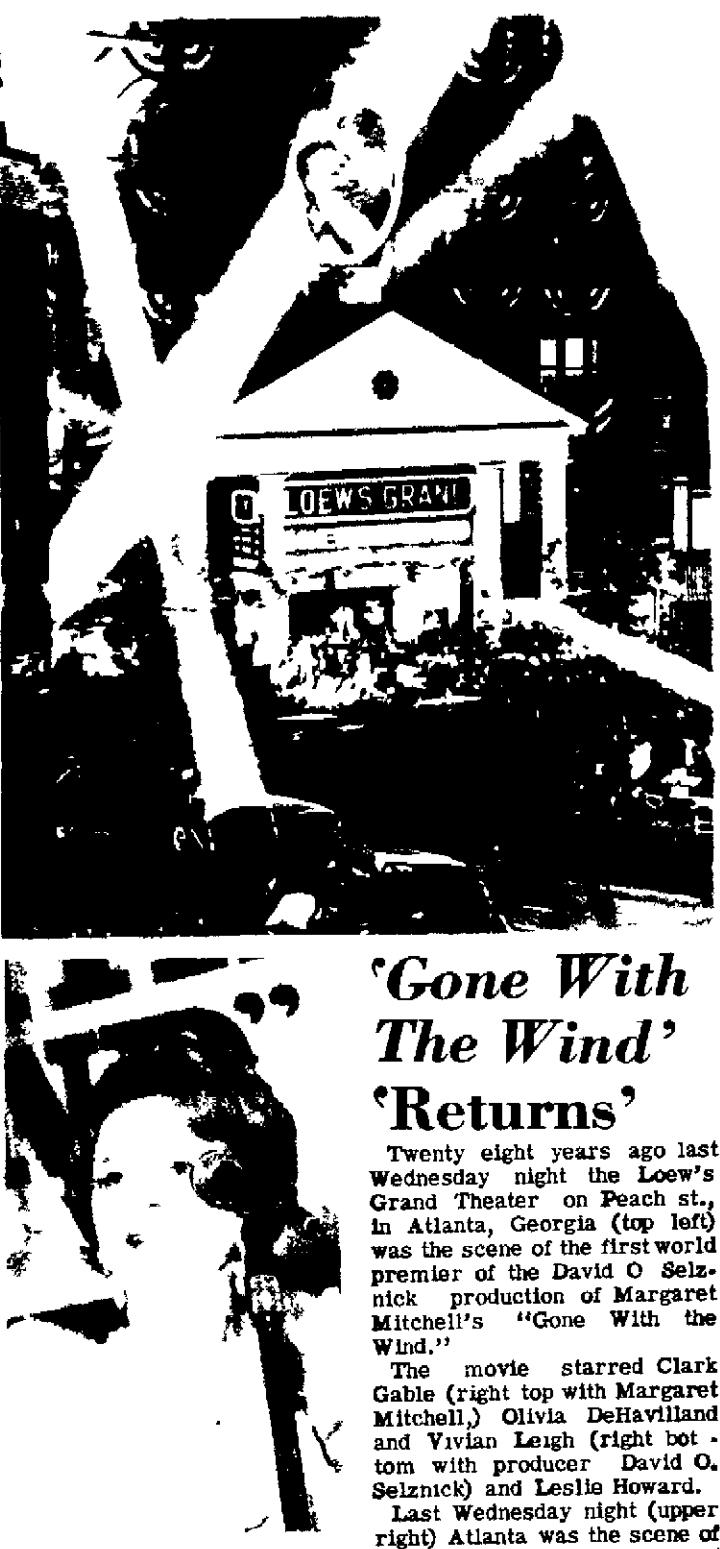

"They are very sensitive about the disproportionate size of the American effort," he said, "and I wouldn't like them to get the idea the big guy is trying to push them around."

Percy said he doesn't intend to seek hearings or a vote on the proposal until it seems to be in the national interest to do so.

Percy listed 22 other senators,

'Gone With The Wind' Returns

Twenty eight years ago last Wednesday night the Loew's Grand Theater on Peach st., in Atlanta, Georgia (top left) was the scene of the first world premier of the David O Selznick production of Margaret Mitchell's "Gone With the Wind."

The movie starred Clark Gable (right top with Margaret Mitchell,) Olivia DeHavilland and Vivian Leigh (right bottom with producer David O. Selznick) and Leslie Howard.

Last Wednesday night (upper right) Atlanta was the scene of the second world premier of this Civil War epic, which is considered to be the greatest box office draw and money maker in the history of motion pictures. The second premier of this now classic motion picture was held in the exactly the same spot where the first premier was held Oct. 4, 1939.

Although the usual search lights and photographer's flashes lighted up historic Peach st. Wednesday night and there was the usual bally-hoo and excitement that surrounds any world premier, for many persons like actress DeHavilland (left) the only surviving star of the "big four" the premier held a nostalgic remembrance of years past.

By a 2 to 1 margin, the conference approved the Labor government's decision to apply for membership.

By a somewhat smaller majority, it rejected a call to reaffirm the stiff conditions for membership laid down by the party five years ago.

This was the most important vote of the conference for Prime Minister Harold Wilson and his government. If it had gone the other way, the result could well have crippled the government's attempt to bargain its way into the common market over French opposition.

All three major parties in Britain are now unequivocally in favor of participation in the European community. The liberals led the way, and the Conservatives made the application that failed in 1963.

The actual chances for Britain to get into the community remain entirely another matter. Every indication is that France will delay and oppose with all possible devices.

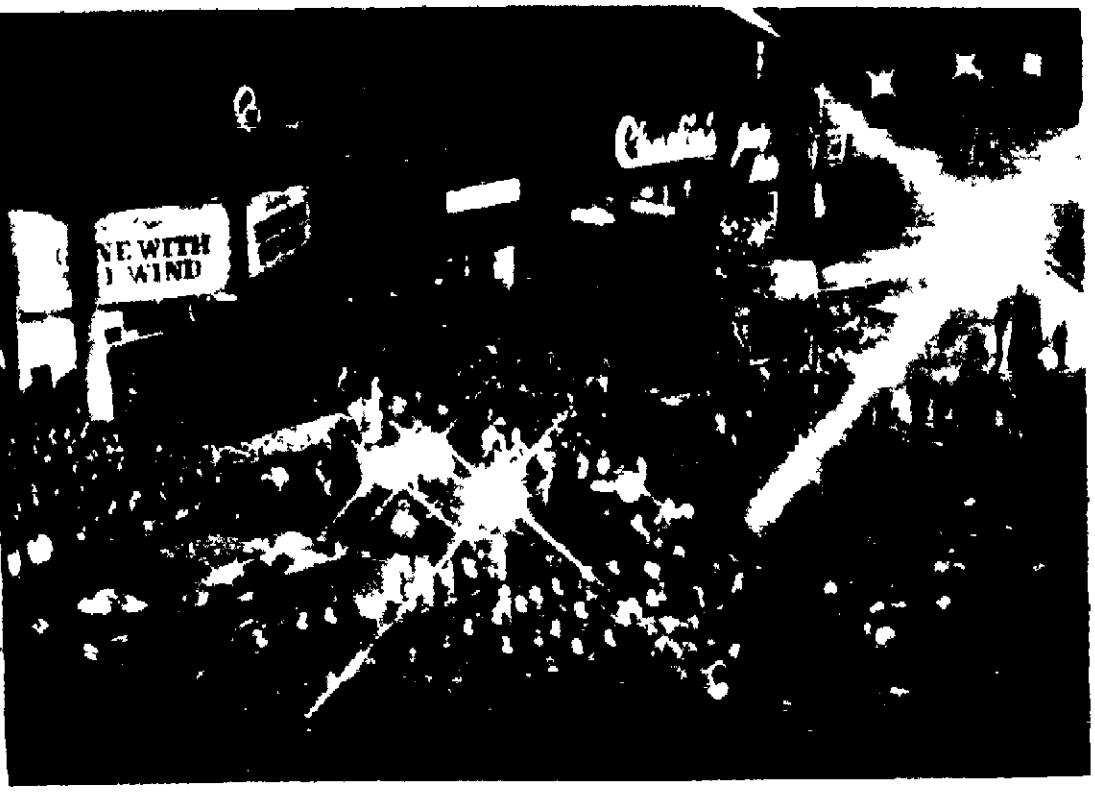

Investigate Hit-and-Run

State police of the Warren substation are investigating a hit and run incident which occurred at 8 p.m. Wednesday on Route 948 in Sheffield township.

Police stated a truck operated by Pierce L. Barley, Rt. 4, Mountain View, Johnson City, Tenn., was struck by an unidentified vehicle which failed to yield half the highway.

According to police the hit and run vehicle was a red Chevrolet and probably a strip of metal, ripped off in the mishap, is missing from the left side.

State Pardons Board Composition Changed

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shafer signed legislation yesterday changing the composition of the Board of Pardons, a move which had been authorized in a constitutional amendment approved by the people in May.

The act removes the secretaries of internal affairs and the commonwealth from the board and empowers the governor to appoint three lay members in their place. Of the three, one must be an attorney, the second a penologist and the third a physician, psychiatrist or psychologist.

The attorney general and lieutenant governor would remain members of the board, which hears all cases of clemency.

Shafer Signs Bill on Judges

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shafer signed into law yesterday the first of three administration bills designed to encourage elderly judges to step down from the bench.

The bill permits a judge to retire on full pay for the balance of his unexpired term at age 70. In such instance, however, the judge would hold himself in readiness for special duty, if called on.

The bill also applies to any judge regardless of age who would become permanently disabled. He would go on regular retirement pay at the end of his unexpired term.

The turn signal campaign will be the first in a series of year-round educational efforts by the Bureau to help Pennsylvania motorists be safer drivers.

"It is impossible to even estimate the number of undetected turn signal violations that are committed daily in Pennsylvania because of the vast number of times every motorist should signal his intentions when driving. We do know that during the first year of the Point System (July 24, 1966 to July 31, 1967) there were 3,428 convictions of drivers who failed to use their turn signals properly.

"Because this is a three-point violation, it is highly probable sought by convicted criminals.

An accompanying bill, also signed by Shafer, set the salary of the three lay members at $7,500 each. The lieutenant governor and attorney general would continue to serve on the board without pay.

Shafer also signed bills to:

— Postpone for six months, to Jan. 1, the effective date of the Sewage Facilities Act, which requires municipalities to submit plans for such facilities to the state.

— Remove legal requirements that State Police officers enlist for periods of two years.

— Transfer certain powers and duties from the Department of Internal Affairs to the Department of Community Affairs.

Undecided, Judge Rules 'Innocent'

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A 15-year-old boy was cleared yesterday of the slaying of his stepmother by a judge who said he could not conclude on guilt or innocence.

"When you come to a coin-flipping stage, you must, of course, rule in favor of the accused," said Judge Raymond R. Niemer of Erie County Family Court.

"If I am wrong," he said, "David knows it."

David was David Freeman, a 6-foot-2 youth who was arrested last Dec. 23, one day after the stabbed and partially burned body of Mrs. Teresa M. Freeman, 35, was found in her home.

He was tried, without jury, on a charge of juvenile delinquency.

that the turn signal law was violated at the same time a second offense was committed.

Since only the offense with the greater number of points is charged against a driver in cases of multiple violations as set forth in the Point System legislation the turn signal violation was not recorded.

The turn signal campaign will tell motorists to:

1. Put on turn signals before moving from curb,
2. Warn the driver behind and in front of you of your intentions;
3. Use your turn signal when changing lanes;
4. Use your turn signal 200 feet before an intersection.

"All media will be asked to cooperate in the continuing campaigns to help make Pennsylvania the Safe Driving State," Commissioner Brainerd said.

"The proper use of turn signals by motor vehicle operators is probably one of the greatest deterrents to highway accidents that an operator can perform while driving a vehicle," the Commissioner said. "At the same time, enforcement of this law, because of the high frequency of use of turn signals and the growing number of vehicles on the highways becomes increasingly difficult."

The Commissioner cited "education" as the best means to encourage proper use of turn signals. The campaign will stress the need for each driver to signal his intentions before

$1.7 Million in Bonds Thought Lost in 'Mix-Up'

NEW YORK — "Easily negotiable" U.S. Treasury notes worth $1.7 million were lost on Monday during a delivery from one bank to another in the Wall Street area, the New York Stock Exchange disclosed yesterday.

The possibility of theft was not ruled out by the police, but they were working on the assumption that the securities were lost in a "mix-up" involving a messenger from one bank and a securities clerk from the other.

One of the missing notes is worth $1 million, the other six $100,000 each. And all are payable to "bearer," meaning that anyone could cash them.

The missing bonds were the property of Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co., 40 Wall Street. A spokesman for Manufacturers said last night that "Our messenger delivered them to Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., and it's up to them to find them."

Although the loss occurred Monday, the police were not notified until yesterday. Usually in the case of missing securities, unless there is immediate evidence of theft, a search is made to see if the bonds are merely lost and recoverable.

But by yesterday the securities had not shown up, and the police, along with the New York Stock Exchange, were notified. The stock exchange circulated the entire financial community, asking for cooperation in finding the missing notes.

Oil Tank Leak Makes Big Stink

(c) N.Y. Times News Service ANTWERP — The stench of 30,000 tons of crude oil hung over the port area of Belgium's second biggest city yesterday after the oil had gushed from a fissure in one of the tanks of the Esso refinery.

Though the worst of the danger has passed, the tank site was much like a battlefield yesterday afternoon with sandbags piled high to contain some of the escaped oil and helmeted men working with shovels and high pressure water hoses.

Helicopters hovered overhead while pumps were being manned on ships of the Belgian navy.

The city of Antwerp, which had virtually declared a state of emergency Wednesday, sending every available worker to battle against the black tide, launched an investigation yesterday to try to find out exactly what happened.

No one is sure. The tank itself is a new one and still lacks a complete second coat of white paint.

Du Pont Holdup Nets $1.5 Million

(c) N.Y. Times News Service MIAMI — Five armed men invaded the waterfront estate of Willis Harrington Du Pont early yesterday and escaped with cash, jewels and two coins collections, that were valued at $1.5 million.

The thieves bound Du Pont, his wife, Miren, their 4-year-old son, Victor, and two servants, with neckties and spent two-and-a-half hours looting the 33-room home. Another son, Lammont, 1-year-old, was not awakened.

Du Pont at first valued the coins at $500,000. Later he said that one of the collections, part of a larger Prince Mikhailovitch collection of Russian coins, was worth $1 million. He valued his other collections—United States coins—at $500,000. About 7,000 coins were taken.

Du Pont said part of the Prince Mikhailovitch collection is in the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C., and the rest in a bank in Wilmington, Del.

"I'll never keep valuables in the house again," he said.

He told police one of the holdup men had said they would hold the coins for $200,000 ransom. Du Pont said the robbers "told us up and threatened us, as I suppose all robbers do, but they didn't treat us roughly."

Miami police said that in addition to the coins, the stolen items included 1,000 silver dollars, 20 to 30 items of jewelry valued at $25,000 five men's watches valued at $3,000 and a

Screwballs Serve a Cause

The bane of our modern civilized society is the radical, fanatic, or screwball. And we are quick to ostracize those showing any tendency to deviate from what is accepted as "popular thinking."

Yet if one will check the records from the beginning of time right up to the present day, it will be found that it was the radicals, fanatics, and even the screwballs that have been responsible for our greatest economic and social advances.

In short, it is the radicals, fanatics, and screwballs that still keep civilization moving ahead and are responsible for most of the advances that have contributed to what we enthusiastically describe as "the good life."

Both in the historical and industrial development of our own nation radicals, fanatics, and screwballs have played an important part.

Columbus discovered our continent.

Voltaire is credited with fathering our form of democracy.

Col. Edwin Drake pushed "Drake's Folly" through to the successful conclusion that led to the beginning of the oil industry.

Alexander Graham Bell believed the telephone would work.

Thomas Edison had an idea that moving pictures could be made.

Robert Fulton spent a good portion of his life designing and building a boat that would run with steam power.

The Wright brothers were the worst screwballs of all.

And Henry Ford was plain nuts to think that the public would buy automobiles in quantities that would support mass production.

The list could be unending.

But what will never be "unending"

Investing in This Era

If you invest your money at 6 per cent interest, compounded semi-annually, your nestegg will double in 12 years. If you invest it at 7 per cent, compounded semi-annually, your nestegg will double in 10 1/2 years. If you invest it at 8, your nestegg will double in 9 1/2 years.

At the same rate, a high-grade, fixed-income investment in bonds, mortgages, savings accounts takes on the characteristics of a "growth" issue. An investment which doubles in 9 1/2 years is certainly "growing." At the same time, this investment will retain the advantages of a guaranteed annual return and superior protection against adverse economic conditions.

At 6 per cent and over, therefore, even some "smart money" will might flow into this type of investment. Annual interest returns of this magnitude surely would more than offset any foreseeable yearly increase in the cost of living plus any foreseeable income tax bite. Barring a global war—in which case, what matter?—these are safe assumptions. You would end up with a decent "true" return on your money.

But will you keep pace earning interest at 3 to 5 per cent a year, even when interest is compounded?

Not at the current pace of rise in the cost of living plus the current pace of rise in taxes at all government levels. At these interest rates the investor in fixed-income securities is not gaining. Inflation and income taxes keep him from even keeping pace. At these rates he is losing today.

This is the fact which lies behind the fundamental and long-term shift by institutional investors and individuals from highest-grade bonds to stock and to other forms of investment which can be expected to rise in value as prices rise.

"We cannot in conscience recommend that depositors keep all their money in savings accounts with us," a Utah banker remarked when we met during the American Bankers Assn.'s convention in New York last week. "Not when we expect inflation to erode the value of the dollar in savings accounts and not when we expect the level of income taxes to remain high and go higher."

"I don't invest my own or my wife's money this way. How can I suggest that my customers do what I don't?"

"What will your advice be?" I asked.

"Invest in a combination of fixed-income securities and stocks—say, shares in a no-load mutual fund. Have money in your homes and the land on which your homes stand because these will go up in price too."

This is the reasoning which is leading to what could turn into an explosion of investment plans which combine stocks with life insurance and savings accounts and/or highest-grade bonds. This is the reason which is encouraging life insurance companies to team up with mutual

Autumn Madness

In the days before color film was perfected, only a photographic memory could capture the colors that are so rampant on the forested hillsides at this time of the year. But memories become dim and perhaps that is why a kodachrome slide of the fall coloring, when thrown on the screen on a winter's night, seems so unbelievable in its beauty.

This weekend the fall coloring should be at its peak. Given bright sunlight and a blue sky, the forested hills and valleys of the Kinzua country will put on a show that few places in the world can equal.

With 12,000 acres of water in the Allegheny Reservoir to reflect the painted shoreline, the pleasure of viewing the autumn foliage is doubled for those who take to the water.

These are golden days that should be treasured, and every spare moment should be spent out of doors. All week the "flames" of autumn have been creeping slowly through the crowns of the forest trees. Every species responds a little differently to this autumn madness. Even leaves of the same is the influence the radicals, fanatics, and screwballs will have on our society as we move ahead to and into the 21st century.

As always they will be playing their important role in pushing mankind out of the comfortable status quo rut and on to higher levels of social and economic achievement.

They will always be with us—Thank God!

Jewish New Year

An editorial in an area paper reflects our thinking.

"Residents of the Jewish faith on Wednesday at sundown, started the observance of Rosh Hashanah, their New Year.

It will be followed 10 days later by Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement. The period in between is known as the Ten Days of Repentance.

Rosh Hashanah commemorates the creation of the world and serves as a reminder that it is within the power of man to recreate himself, his society and the world around him.

The 10-day period of High Holy Days not only emphasizes man's duties to God but his duties to fellow man. And in these days of strife and friction, these ideals have particular relevance to all for all of us.

Self judgment, self improvement and atonement are embodied in the spirit of the Jewish High Holy Days which started Wednesday evening.

May we, in spirit of the time, wish our Jewish friends a Happy New Year and may it be in God's will to grant them a "sweet" new year."

Merger King Blues

WASHINGTON — Psychically speaking—or moral-wise, as the boys in the board room say—things were looking up until Newsweek arrived with that long article on "Jim Ling the Merger King." Another showdown with the garnishee constabulary had been averted, the mysterious leak from the living room ceiling had just as mysteriously stopped, and it looked as if the television set might not break down until after the World Series after all.

What more could a man ask of life? "Plenty!" replied Newsweek opening to page 71 and introducing James Ling, president of Ling-Temco-Vought, Inc., producers of missiles, hamburgers, golf clubs, bombers and pills. "Don't read on," cautioned common sense, but some unfathomable impulse to plumb the depths of melancholia would not be denied.

By the time the eye hit the third paragraph depression began rolling in like fog on the grand banks. Though a mere 44 years of age, the third paragraph declared, Ling had already "dazzled Dallas and Wall Street alike by piling merger upon merger."

The mind tuned out Newsweek's prose to dwell miserably upon all the cities and streets that it had failed to dazzle either separately or in combination. Its defense was weak. "After all, my thing in life is not piling merger upon merger." "Of course not. Your thing is praying that the leak in the ceiling will go away. You wouldn't know how to pile one merger on another if life depended on it. You couldn't even assemble a tricycle on Christmas Eve."

"Daily workouts," interrupted Newsweek, "hold his powerful 6-foot 2-inch frame down to a tightly muscled 200 pounds and he walks with the spring of an athlete." A gelatinously-muscled 123 pounds absorbed this sentence with a wince, wracking the powerless 6-foot 5-inch frame that had not had a daily workout since 1945.

"At the approach of an inquiring outsider, Ling shoots from his chair as if spring-propelled," continued Newsweek, "fixes the caller instantly with his piercing black eyes and begins a tireless, nonstop explanation of his methods."

Here the ego receives a moment's relief. Ling may be the incomparable superior man in every other way, but he obviously has a lot to learn about coping with inquiring outsiders. In the first place, it is a 10-1 bet that any inquiring outsiders who get past the door will be encyclopedia salesmen. In that case one should shoot from the chair as if spring-propelled only if there is time to hide in the cellar and shout, "There's no body home."

If caught in your chair, however, it is madness to shoot from it and try fixing the salesman with piercing black eyes, for he will surely have his samples spread on the floor before you can get a piercing black eye into him. The more sensible response is to sink back into your chair as though your spring has failed and glare at him wordlessly with bluish blue eyes. With luck, this may send him packing in the belief that he is wasting his time on an imbecile.

The sense of superiority is short-lived, however, for Newsweek continues with a catalogue of Ling dynamisms that makes a stopped ceiling leak seem as nothing. He "ticks off points on his fingers—all the while spewing out dates, facts and figures." He is distinguished by "drive and total absorption."

"Why so glum?" (that's wife talk.)

"I can't tick off points on my fingers, because I don't have any points to tick off. I have practically no drive and my absorption is negligible. I think my 35-hour workweek is brutal, and I couldn't persuade the bank to lend me $300 to repair the back porch. And you ask why I'm glum!"

Glumness in a capitalistic society is having magazines remind you that you lack the moxie to join the new breed of merger masters who are busily reshaping the U.S. business structure."

"It looks like the leak has stopped in the ceiling." That is the kind of talk a merger master would never waste time on. It seemed good enough until Newsweek arrived. Now there is only silently thought, "Why do I have to end up with the type who can't make the atmosphere crackle?" (That's wife thought.) "Why wasn't I born to stimulate machine-gun talk, table-pounding and sheer joy of dealing?" (That's the sound of a man face to face with the knowledge that he couldn't even borrow $10 million from European banks.)

Decrees Secret Hearings

WASHINGTON — Last summer the American people were astounded to learn of starvation conditions among American Negroes in Mississippi. Southern doctors who had visited Mississippi testified before Sen. Joe Clark, D-Pa., regarding serious malnutrition. Charges were made that Mississippians were trying to starve Negroes out of the state so they would migrate North.

Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi immediately replied with a bill providing $25 million to feed hungry people in any part of the nation, regardless of the food stamp plan; also to supply medical service; and finally, to make a nationwide survey of malnutrition.

The Senate backed up the Mississippi Senator by passing his bill in the almost record time of ten days.

Last week, however, a secret cabal of Dixiecrats made plans to scuttle the Stennis bill. The public had no opportunity to know about the scuttling plans, however, because Rep. Robert Poage, the Texas Democrat who presides over the House Agriculture Committee, decreed that the bill be considered behind closed doors.

Executive sessions are supposed to be reserved for problems which involve the security of the nation, such as military appropriations, espionage operations by Central Intelligence etc. Starvation by no stretch of the imagination could involve national security. It does, however, involve embarrassment, especially to those who want to sabotage the feeding of hungry people.

Nevertheless, Chairman Poage insisted that the discussion be secret, and scheduled another closed-door session yesterday. He even refused to permit a committee reporter to make a transcript of the meeting. This column, however, can report some of the things which happened.

Sen. Stennis made a sincere pitch for passage of his bill.

"There is evidence that quite a number of impoverished people in various states are not participating in the food stamp program, either because they are unfamiliar with it or because they live in counties that are not signed up under the program," he said.

"My own state of Mississippi has been singled out in the press, but the truth is that Mississippi has a high proportion of people being fed under the food stamp program. I'm getting tired of reading about alleged conditions in my state, but if there are people on the Delta, or anywhere else, who are going hungry, let's feed them."

Despite this background, the Greek military junta appointed Thanos to wangle money out of American bankers. The Export-Import Bank in Washington is an official arm of the U. S. government. If it lends money this will be an indication of administration support for the "government of the colonels." The New York

Bankers are reported cool toward any loans to Greece; the Bank of America in San Francisco is reported receptive.

Two Gorgeous Black Eyes

Paris, France — The Hotel de Crillon is part of two old palaces on the Place de la Concorde. Both occupy a city block, and both are of plain beige stone. They share the fairest view of the city, with a broad bridge crossing the Seine and, on the far side, the Chamber of Deputies and the tricolor. One has special rooms for me.

He was assigned a room in the Crillon and he pored over his books meticulously and counter-signed checks for officers. His particular weakness was that he could feel no sense of victory sitting in Paris. Around the room he hung pictures of his wife and children. When he wasn't working, he stared at them with longing and wondered how long it would be before Adolf Hitler conquered all of Europe and sent him home.

Each morning, he strode down the winding staircase to the lobby, nodding and smiling behind his spectacles and muttering "Guten morgen." No one responded. Sometimes, an employee of the hotel would nod curiously, but no one ever catered to the loneliness of the Major with conversation. In time, he learned to say "Bon jour!" but even this concession to semantics brought nothing in return.

Hitler came to Paris to stand triumphantly in Les Invalides, to stare down at the stone casket of Napoleon in triumph. It did not raise the spirits of the Major. Affectionate letters from his frau and kinder made him feel worse, not better. If the victor wept, he did it in his room.

Sometimes, the years tick slowly and solemnly. But they tick. And, in 1944, the Major heard officially what everybody knew unofficially. Eisenhower was coming, and he was sending LeClerc's Second Armored Division in front to liberate Paris. The Germans hopped into staff cars and trucks and headed east. When orders reached the Major, he packed his pictures, his ledgers, his suitcases, and started the journey of the defeated.

A few days later, an American officer arrived. He was assigned to the Major's room. In it, on a desk, he saw a box of good cigars. Under it was a note in German: "To my American successor, I hope you are happier here than I was."

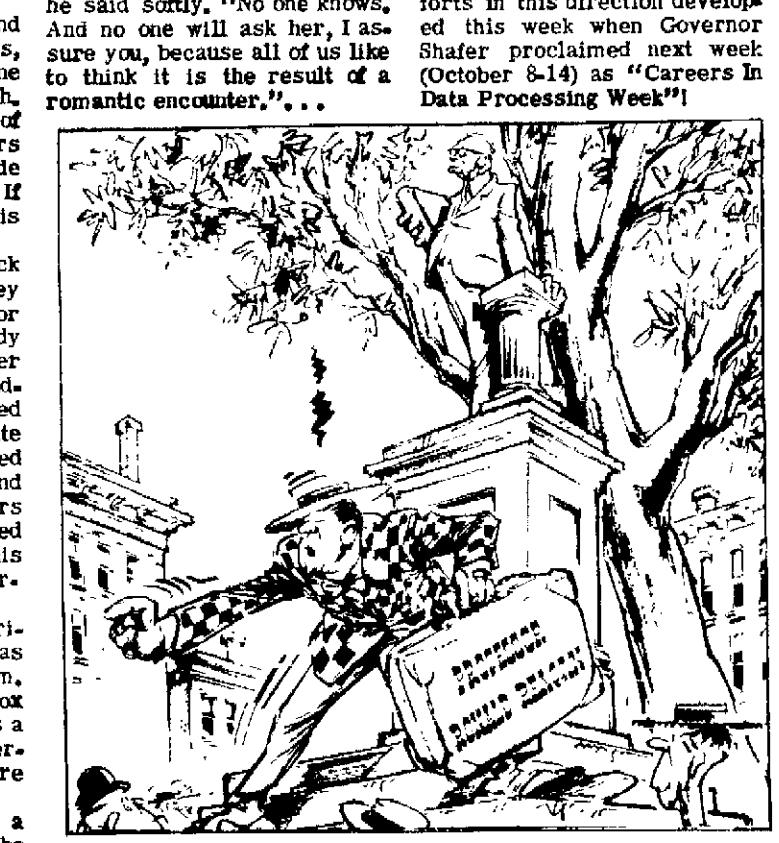

In the back of the hotel is a coffee shop. Years ago, the cash register was on top of a showcase of pastries. Behind it sat a plain, middle-aged Frenchwoman with a long nose. No one ever saw her smile. She accepted the checks and the francs brought to her by the waiters. Without looking up, she spiked the bills and rang up the change.

One morning, she showed up with two black eyes. They were gorgeous things in four natural colors. The waiters said nothing. They handed her the checks and the money and, without a word, she depressed the keys of the register and made the proper change.

An American looked at the two black eyes and asked a waiter what had happened to the cashier. He shrugged.

At last the visitor called the maître d'hôtel. "How did the cashier get those black eyes?" he asked. The maître d' bent until his swallowtail coat part at the back. "I do not know," he said softly. "No one knows. And no one will ask her, I assure you, because all of us like to think it is the result of a romantic encounter."

Bills, Bills, Bills

LEGISLATIVE SCOREBOARD No. 1—Pennsylvania's lawmakers, who first picked up the 1967 legislative cudgel back on January 3 and are now in their tenth month of sessioning, have amassed a rather interesting record to date.

For example, they have now passed the 3000-mark in the number of bills introduced in both the House of Representatives and Senate—3048 to be exact. This does not include resolutions, of which 153 have been introduced in the House and 94 in the Senate. Add all these legislative "introductions" together and the total is a legislative hair short of 3300 introductions.

What has all this produced? Well, the earth-shattering total of 178 bills have passed both House and Senate and been sent to the Governor, of which number 167 have gained gubernatorial approval, one has been vetoed and ten are on the Governor's desk awaiting action, today being the final day for gubernatorial action on these ten bills.

What is the status of this conglomeration of more than 3000 "general" bills introduced this year? Of the 1861 bills spotted in the House of Representatives, 340 have been passed by the House and sent to the Senate, of which number 106 have gained Senate approval. On the Senate side, of 1187 bills introduced in that chamber, 256 have been approved by the Senate and sent to the House where 143 of these Senate bills have gained House clearance.

As for actual legislative days, that is, days in which the Legislature has been in session—the total is less than 80 for both House and Senate.

LEGISLATIVE SCOREBOARD No. 2—How has the executive branch, the Shafer Administration, fared on the "pet" legislation front during the current session?

This is interesting too. The Shafer Administration, by its own classification, has set up roughly 45 bills (subjects) which are classified as "major administration bills." Of this number, 14 (in nine months) have emerged in the victory column. However, of the 14, one was the constitutional convention issue and eight were constitutional amendments.

Aside from these, exactly five major administration bills during the year have managed to gain full legislative approval and the ultimate signature of the Governor.

Of the more than two-score subjects in this "major administration

Market Holds Gain In Quiet Trading

(c) N.Y. Times News Service

NEW YORK — The stock market held a narrow gain in relatively quiet trading yesterday. Volume on the New York Stock Exchange declined sharply, reflecting the start of the Jewish holy days. There were 628 advances against 567 declines. Turnover dropped to 8,49 million shares from the two-week high of 11,52 million shares Wednesday.

Strength in the blue-chip issues carried market indicators to relatively good gains.

Steele-ing The Sports Scene

Never Look Back

To quote bartender-philosopher Dave (Shu-tac) Steele, "He who faces the sun never sees the shadows."

The outlook was sunny from this corner last week as we picked 18 of 20 winners.

The only two misses were Wattsville's 26-0 romp over Northwestern (which goes as the biggest since we picked NW by 21-0) and Kane's disputed 19-13 defeat by Johnsonburg. Closest pick: Franklin 26, Corry 14 (we said 28-13).

The Kane-Johnsonburg contest nearly developed into a real donnybrook, we understand, as a roughing-the-kicker penalty was called on the Rams after a punt had been blocked and the winning touchdown came on a one-hop pass in the endzone.

Officials have come under a lot of fire around the area this season. Several calls in a couple of Warren games were a little dubious and other newspapers have been commenting on poor officiating in their teams' contests.

Since it seems to be the fashion, maybe we should blame the refs for our average. It soared to the .729 mark after last week (51 right, 19 wrong), but we are still aware of the shadows.

Hoping against a total eclipse this week, we guess:

Warren 20, Meadville 13

On paper, the Dragons look a little better, but the Bulldogs are still searching for their first victory and will be up. If Saturday's romp over Oil City makes the Blue and White overconfident, this score will be reversed.

Smethport 13, Sheffield 7

The Wolverines are coming and will throw a real scare into the Hubbers before the home team pulls it out. Port, at 3-1, will try to run up the score as they did last year against the Orange and Black, but Giordano's Gang will meet the challenge.

Youngsville 21, Randolph-EM 14

Before last week, we would have predicted an Eagle runaway, but if the Red and White offense doesn't straighten out, the Rockets will make a game of it. The Eagle defense is about due for letdown, too.

Cassadaga 33, Eisenhower 19

The crippled Knights won't be able to handle the Cougar onslaught this week. The Valleymen would give even a healthy Ike team a tough game and now it's no contest.

Jamestown 25, Corry 14

The poor Beavers! Franklin and the Red Raiders back-to-back! A narrow escape against Olean will have Jimtown on its toes and they're too deep, too big and too fast for the Hannamen.

Titusville 19, Grove City 7

The Rockets aren't looking forward to Franklin this week. Even if Gene McNamara is still out with an injury, Titusville's running game will be enough to topple the Eagles.

Ridgway 27, Elk CC 6

The Elkers sew up the Bucktail Conference crown before running into tough Curwensville next week.

St. Louis 4, Boston 2

That's games, with the Cards winning the series. We're a week behind, but the series is even going to St. Louis, where the Redbirds will win two, then lose the next and clinch it in the sixth game. Our branch office at Los Vegas gets credit for this one.

Lonborg Blazes, Yaz Blasts: Series Even

Javier Cracks No-Hitter, Red Sox Whip Cards, 5-0

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Jim Lonborg flirted with a perfect game and wound up with a one-hitter and Carl Yastrzemski slammed two electrifying homers yesterday to even the World Series with a 5-0 Boston victory over St. Louis in the rain-spattered second game.

A tense crowd of 35,188 thrilled to Lonborg's brilliant pitching that awoke memories of Don Larsen's perfect game for the New York Yankees in the 1956 series.

Not a man reached base and 19 Cardinals had been retired in order until Curt Flood finally walked on a 3-2 pitch with one out in the seventh.

The no-hitter still was alive into the eighth when a light shower and sudden dark clouds forced the lights to be turned on. By this time, the game had been locked up by Yastrzemski's second homer, a three-run 430-foot blast into the bleachers about six or seven rows up among the frantic Red Sox fans about 430 feet from the plate.

With Lonborg pitching the best game of his career in which his last start and 22nd victory had been Sunday's clinching win over Minnesota, that first run was all he needed.

But Yaz wasn't through.

Coming up in the seventh inning after Jose Tarrabull walked and Dalton Jones singled, Yastrzemski slammed a pitch by left-handed Joe Hoerner into the center field bleachers.

It was a tape measure job, landing about six or seven rows up among the frantic Red Sox fans about 430 feet from the plate.

A bright sunny day with the temperatures in the 80s turned into a dull, cloudy afternoon as the game wore on. They turned on the lights in the seventh and rain brought out umbrellas and raincoats as they went down the stretch with Lonborg's dramatic pitching.

The drama piled up as Lonborg whirled through the Cardinal bunting order, once, twice and into the third time before finally walked Flood on a low, outside pitch on 3-2. It was the 73rd pitch of the 95 he threw about sunlight and rain.

A rousing cheer arose when Tim McCarver grounded out to second base. The noise mounted when Rico Petrocelli, a demon in the field all day, tossed out Mike Shannon.

The air went out of the no-hitter boom when Julian Javier sliced a double into the left field corner. But Lonborg never missed a stride. He blew down pinch hitter Bob Tolman to complete the eighth and knocked off the Redbirds, one-two-three in the ninth.

This handsome, 24-year-old, razor-cut Stanford grad thus matched the three previous no-hitters thrown in Series competition, Ed Reulbach had one for the Chicago Cubs in 1906, and Claude Passeau for the Cubs in 1945. But Floyd Bevens, of the Yan's had lost his one-hitter in 1947 when Cookie Lavagetto doubled off the right field wall for a 3-2 Brooklyn victory with two out in the ninth.

Yastrzemski skipped batting practice and took a 45-minute nap in the clubhouse after hitting for 20 minutes in a special drill after Wednesday's game in which he went hitless. It paid off with two homers and a single and four runs batted in.

The man who carried the Red

Sox on his back to the pennant and everybody's choice for Most Valuable Player honors, slammed a 360-foot homer into the sixth row of the right field stands in the fourth. The blow broke up a scoreless battle between Lonborg and Dick Hughes.

to see what pressure is."

Williams said he will pitch Gary Bell Saturday in St. Louis against the Cards' Nelson Briles after Friday's off day for travel. "It will be Jose Santiago (Wednesday loser)" said Williams. "And then Lonborg will wrap it up Monday."

The rain never stopped play but Lonborg had some long innings sitting in the dugout, while the Cards changed pitchers and the Red Sox scored runs. It took about 17 minutes to play the sixth inning and 24 minutes to complete the seventh with Lonborg still hanging onto possible no-hitter.

It was the 20th time in Series play that one man has hit two home runs. The record is held by Babe Ruth, who hit three in 1926 and three again in 1928.

All through the long afternoon while Lonborg still was working on a perfect game, his pitching coach, Sal Maglie, had to be thinking of the day he was on the losing side of a perfect game against Larsen at Yankee stadium in 1956. Sol lost that one 2-0.

The last one-hitter in Series play was a loser by Bevens, who walked 10 but didn't give up a hit until Cookie Lavagetto came through with two out in the ninth, rattling the scoreboard in Ebbets Field, with a base hit that not only ruined the no-hitter but won the game 3-2.

"I was going for homers every time up," Yastrzemski said after the game. "Yesterday I didn't go for the home run because I was on the losing side of a perfect game. I didn't feel real sharp. I just wanted to lay the bat on the ball. But when you feel good, like I did today, you naturally go for home runs."

Four Share First Day Alcan Lead

By JOHN FARROW
Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. ANDRES, Scotland (AP) —
Billy Casper, Doug Sanders and Gardner Dickinson shared the first round lead in the rich Alcan Golfer of the Year tournament yesterday with 22-year-old Brian Barnes of England. All registered four-under-par 68s.

The tournament, being played for the first time, carries a first prize of $55,000—the largest in pro golf. Eleven United States pros, Seven Britons and Bob Charles of New Zealand qualified to compete.

Bobby Nichols and Gay Brewer of the U.S. contingent and Peter Allis of Britain all were deadlocked at 69.

The sun shone, there was little wind and even the natives wondered if the weather could hold out all day. It did. The visitors—only Sanders among them had played the Old Course previously—agreed the weather was perfect for golf.

Meanwhile, an International 72-hole tournament for $70,000 in prizes was being played at the same time as the $125,000 Alcan.

At the end of the first round in the International, Peter Thompson, five-time winner of the British Open championship from Australia, led with 69. Dai Rees, British Ryder Cup captain; David Snell, England, and Brian Waites, England, were on the 70 mark.

Then came Al Balding, Canada; Graham Henning, South Africa; Peter Green, Britain; John Panton, Scotland; Brian Allen, England; and Denis Hutchinson, South Africa, with 71s.

Sanders who finished 19th here in British Open of 1964, went out in 34 and came back in 34 and said: "Well, I thought the Old Course was at its kindest today."

He birdied the last three holes on the outward nine, sinking a 20-footer at the ninth, and then rammed one in from 10 feet at the 12th for another birdie and canned one from 20 feet for his last birdie at the 413-yard 15th hole.

Casper, a former U.S. Open champion, had four birdies in his round. He sank a four-footer at the seventh for his first birdie three, sent his approach to within a few inches at the ninth, played another great approach at the 15th and then canned one from 20 feet at the 17th.

Dickinson started out with a birdie three at the first hole after sending his eight iron to two feet and sinking the putt. Afterwards Dickinson played perfect golf and never once was in real trouble.

Off-Campus
Golfers Win

The Warren Off-Campus golfers soundly defeated the Jamestown Community College team by a score of 14½ to 3½ yesterday at Jackson Valley Country Club. Led by Rocky Logan's solid 76, the local team parlayed consistent golf into an impressive victory over the New Yorkers, who had played two previous matches.

Warren journeys to Moonbrook Country Club on October 23 for a return match with Jamestown. That match will close the fall season for Warren, with the spring schedule consisting of ten matches.

Scores for the Warren golfers were: Rocky Logan 38-33-76; Alan Culbertson 41-40-81; Jim Dahler 41-45-86; Paul Johnson 43-43-86; John Henry 45-46-91; Jay Loomis 44-51-95.

YOU BE THE OFFICIAL

The Warren bench and the two-man TMO staff covering Saturday's game with Oil City protested what appeared to be a face-mask violation against Dan O'Neill of the Dragons, but the official on top of the play ruled no penalty.

When told photographic proof was available, the official replied, "You know what you can do with that picture." Grabbing the face mask costs the team committing the infraction 15 yards. You be the official. (Photo by Mahan)

Ex-Keystone State Schoolboy Honored

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — "It's the greatest honor I've ever received in my life and I can truthfully say I never expected anything like this to ever happen to me," said University of Tulsa linebacker Bob Junko yesterday after being named Lineman of the Week by the Associated Press.

Junko, 21-year-old senior from Washington, Pa., received the honor for his brilliant performance Saturday in Tulsa's 14-12 upset of Arkansas. Junko made 22 tackles and intercepted a pass in the past minutes of play to stop an Arkansas drive.

"It's not my honor alone," said Junko, who as a Tulsa co-captain holds regular meetings of the defensive unit in his room after practice. "It belongs to the entire defensive team, especially the front four, and to the coaching staff."

Chuck Boyle, Tulsa's linebacker coach, says Junko is the type who leads by doing.

"Bob Junko is one of the finest young men I've worked with in 20 years of coaching," Boyle said. "He has tremendous character and dedication and a feverish desire to get the job done. He has been taught at home that nothing in life comes easy and he has learned that

County Football Teams Show Poor Records at Season Halfway Point

With the 1967 football season at the halfway mark, Warren County's four high school teams show one of the worst collective records in many years—four wins, eleven losses.

Warren and Youngsville are both saddled with 2-2 marks, while Sheffield (0-4) and Eisenhower (0-3) are still winless.

The Dragons and the Eagles hope to slip over the .500 level and the Wolverines will be seeking to break into the victory column in three games on the road tonight. The Knights play at home tomorrow afternoon.

Warren travels to Meadville (0-4) for its final Section II encounter, Youngsville is at Randolph-East Mead (2-2) and Smethport (3-1) hosts Sheffield. Eisenhower will entertain Cassadaga Valley (3-0) at 1:30 tomorrow.

Dragon fans should not be deceived by Meadville's record. The Bulldogs have fallen to three unbeaten teams, Greenville, Franklin and Hickory and one once-beaten club, Grove City.

Coach Tony Stellato has only two lettermen back from last year's 2-7 season, but one of them is Marty Davis, a quick, hard-running back with the ability to go all the way.

Inexperience has hurt the Bulldogs, but they are rounding into shape and will be hungry. And tough on their own field.

Dragon coach Toby Shea seems to have found the right combination after Saturday's 32-13 triumph over Oil City, but the big concern is whether or not the Blue and White will fall back into their old ways again tonight.

Shea plans to go with the same changes that he put into effect for last week's game, with one possible exception. Tackle John Marchlone missed some practice this week because of a tooth extraction and may not be ready to go tonight. If not, senior Bob Thompson will step back into the position.

The Dragons may find overconfidence is the enemy tonight. Franklin routed the Bulldogs, 48-2 two weeks ago, but the Blue and White fared little better, being victims of a 46-0 shellacking at the hands of the same team.

In the Youngsville-Randolph clash, the question is whether or not the Eagles have recovered from their poor performance of last week when they gave Saugerties a 12-0 win.

Randolph romped past Venango Central Christian and West Middlesex before losing to Saugerties, 13-0 and Conneaut Valley, 13-7. Given the breaks that the Eagles handed the Panthers last week, Randolph could easily walk away with its third victory and leave Youngsville at 2-3.

Randolph has two five runners in halfback Dave Jenkins and fullback Chris Young and Bob Wright is a good two-way end.

Neither team will have an advantage in size, so it boils down to which club wants the victory more. Costly mistakes like fumbles and interceptions could spell another shutout for the Eagles.

downs last Saturday and another good effort this week could net the Orange and Black its first victory of the season.

The Hubbers dropped their opener to Bradford Central Christian, but have bounced back to outlast Otto-Eldred, rout Coudersport and shut out Allegany, N.Y.

Sheffield's attitude has improved and the return of Dave Morrison, who has recovered from a broken leg suffered in a pre-season scrimmage, should lift the Wolverines' spirit even higher. Morrison, who is the team's best kicker, may not see action tonight but will be on the bench.

Coach Joe Giordano will go again with his "new look" on offense and the Wolverines could be primed for an upset, but it would take a total team effort, something that has eluded the ballclub all season.

The Eisenhower Knights will be attempting to play the role of "giant killers" as they come up against the toughest team in the Valley Conference tomorrow, Cassadaga. Cassadaga went undefeated last year in the Valley and so far this year has won every game.

Eisenhower will be faced again with the problems of injuries. With Dick Hale coming back to the grid last week, and Mark Briggs returning this week, both after nursing torn ligaments, the Knight squad appeared to be at top potential, but such is not the case.

Jeff Lindell, senior Knight quarterback, played his final game last week as he tore ligaments in his knee and will be on crutches for some time. All conference tackle Gary Olson, also was injured last week, as he received a break in the hand, serious enough to warrant a cast.

Stepping into the tackle position will be Bob Russell. Either Jamie Mesmrich or Ken Burford will call the signals tomorrow. Another change in the offense will be in the backfield with either Bart Lohnes or Allen Jones running from the slot back position.

Cassadaga will center their plays around one boy, Monty Tolman. Tolman was all-conference last year and did most of the running for the Cougars. He also scored 11 TD's in the '66 season. So far this season, Cassadaga has been able to

Mrs. Johnson lectured on the history of the Indians, their Devotions were led by Mrs. Ernest Moore of Circle One and Mrs. Bernard King, president, conducted the business meeting at which time the members voted to double the amount of money the society has been requested to contribute to supplies for missionary work and also to send prayer books to the men in the armed services who have attended the Tidioute Methodist Church.

Methodist Church Pays Tribute to Organist

Mrs. Carl (Charlotte) Rosequist was honored with a musical and reception Sunday evening at Tidioute's First Methodist Church where she has been the organist for fifty years.

The program was presented in the sanctuary, where the pipe organ towers over the chancel. Mrs. Lenore McIntyre, mistress of ceremonies welcomed guests and introduced speakers and musical numbers.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Freeburgh and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dietrich of Warren sang a group of favorite hymns and a quartet of young girls of the church's junior choir sang "My Cathedral." They were Denise Kitterling, Kimberly Woldorf, Darlene Drukenbrod and Susan King.

Two cello solos were played by Daniel Fray, of Jamestown, N.Y., accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Fred Barr who also accompanied the other numbers. Mr. Fray is a cello major at Fredonia State College, N.Y.

Speakers included Charles R. Anderson, former teacher and principal at Tidioute high school, who paid tribute to Mrs. Rosequist's service to the school and community; Charles E. Ulf, First Methodist Church school superintendent, who acknowledged Mrs. Rosequist's work in the church and Sunday school through her music; and Mrs. Bernard King, president

Hometown Parade Oct. 14

Arrangements for the eighth annual Tidioute Hometown Parade are almost completed, according to Lion Tom Walsh. Scheduled for Saturday afternoon, October 14, at 2 o'clock, the parade will be welcoming all fishermen, visitors and townspeople for Pennsylvania's only claimed State Fishing Championship Tournament.

All businesses and organizations in the Tidioute area have been invited to enter a float or small vehicle which can carry an exhibit denoting either the area's historical or recreational significance. First and second place prizes will be awarded in entries from businesses, $25.00 and $15.00; organizations, $25.00 and $15.00; religious groups, $25.00 and $15.00; twirler groups, $25.00 and $15.00; and a special award of $10.00.

A feature in the parade will be Zem-Zem Shrine Oriental Band from Erie. Under the direction of Emerson Rounds, this group was acclaimed in 1964 as the World Champion Oriental Band. Garbed in colorful Arabic attire, band members express their music with the tom-toms, musettes, cymbals, and bass drums. They will offer a special performance for the public at the completion of the parade.

Officially sponsoring the parade is the Tidioute Area Chamber of Commerce. The Lions Club is responsible for arranging the parade and plans to have it become a highlight of the tournament weekend. Entries for the various prize divisions are still open and any interested group should get in contact with Tom Walsh, parade chairman.

Junior Carnival On Black Friday

Junior Class members are busily working to make their Black Friday, October 13, pay off by hosting an evening of games and carnival food fare at Tidioute Area High School. The doors will open at 7:30 p.m. and a fee of ten cents will enable persons to enter and find games to suit their abilities and spirit of fun.

According to President Judy Yucha, her committees have scheduled such games as "Horror-Alley," "Beat the Heap," "Darts," "Baseball," "Basketball," and "Peek Duck." There will be plenty of popcorn, cotton candy, soda, and candy apples. A bake sale will be sponsored as well as a Turkey Raffle. A surprise door prize will be awarded during the evening.

The Rosequists' son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rosequist and five sons of Netcong, N.J., attended the reception, as did Dr. Frederick Hunt, Kane District Superintendent of Western Pennsylvania Conference, Methodist Church. Relatives and friends also were present from Warren, Titusville, and Jamestown, N.Y.

Lecture on Nigeria Oct. 10

An illustrated program on Nigeria will be presented at United Presbyterian Church in Tidioute Tuesday evening, Oct. 10, at 8 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend.

The program will be given by the Rev. Harold Burns and Mrs. Burns, of First Methodist Church in Lake City, Pa. Mr. and Mrs. Burns spent thirteen months in Nigeria and they will have many interesting and informative experiences to relate.

Mrs. Rosequist assumed the duties of organist of First Methodist Church when she was a very young girl. She continued her piano and organ study with the late Dr. Leroy Campbell and was graduated from the Warren Conservatory of Music. She has taught piano in Tidioute for many years.

The Rosequists' son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rosequist and five sons of Netcong, N.J., attended the reception, as did Dr. Frederick Hunt, Kane District Superintendent of Western Pennsylvania Conference, Methodist Church. Relatives and friends also were present from Warren, Titusville, and Jamestown, N.Y.

Speaker at Free Methodist Church

Miss Ruth Landin, missionary among the Latins in Tampa, Fla., for twenty-four years, will be guest speaker Sunday evening, Oct. 8, at 7:30 in the Free Methodist Church of Tidioute, not the First Methodist Church as erroneously reported in Thursday's Times-Mirror and Observer.

Miss Landin's program will describe her work at Friendship Mission School and she will illustrate her talk with color slides. The Women's Missionary Society of Tidioute Free Methodist Church, sponsor of the program, and the church's pastor, the Rev. Eugene Sheldon extend an invitation to the public to attend the service.

Trap Shoot Sunday

The Tidioute Bucktails will hold a trap shoot at their range on McCauley Hill on Sunday, Oct. 8, starting at 12:30 p.m.

AFTER 102 YEARS

Ford's Theatre to Reopen

WASHINGTON — Ford's Theater, which went out of business the night Abraham Lincoln was shot there 102 years ago, is going to open its box office again.

Plans for the old house here, which is being restored to the shape it was in when the assassination put an end to its career, were announced here Wednesday by Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall.

"We will have here a live theater, a live memorial to Lincoln as he would have wished," Udall said.

On Jan. 30, the theater will have an inaugural evening of music, dance and drama. Details of the program have not been made public. On Feb. 12, Lincoln's Birthday, a full repertory season will open if support from theater professionals and money from supporters materialize.

Udall said that the National Park Service, part of his department, is negotiating with the Ford's Theater Society, a new nonprofit organization that would be responsible for putting on plays that were current during the Lincoln period, as well as new works about Lincoln and contemporary American life.

The theater building had been converted into an office building more than 100 years ago.

Cattaraugus Co. Gets Big A-Plant

WEST VALLEY, N.Y. (AP) — Plans for a $1.5 million atomic processing plant venture at the Western New York Nuclear Service Center in this Southwestern New York community have been announced by a New York City nuclear fabricating firm.

The mayor expressed the following views on the other leading republican presidential possibilities:

Gov. George Romney of Michigan; he is politically dead and probably was even before his controversial remarks about Vietnam "brainwashing."

If he fails to win the New Hampshire primary he would certainly be finished for good.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon: he would be acceptable to Lindsay unless he is frozen into a strongly hawkish Vietnam position.

Nixon would probably not be able to carry New York State, but he might be able to defeat President Johnson without it.

Lindsay Says GOP Should Pick a Dove

WASHINGTON — Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York City believes that the 1968 Republican presidential candidate should be a dove regarding the war in Vietnam in order to give the voters an alternative to President Johnson's policy of military intensification.

The mayor has told political friends here that he feels Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois would be the strongest nominee, followed very closely by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York.

While he sees Rockefeller as moderating his strong support for the Johnson administration's Vietnam strategy, Lindsay thinks Percy is the only potential Republican candidate with a position on the issue that is consistent enough to form the basis of a national campaign.

The mayor regards Percy as a more attractive presidential candidate than the New York governor because he is younger,

REST AND RECREATION

"...And the first thing I want is a tall, cool glass of beer," Neil Hansen, 20 of Riverside, California, blows the froth off his beer following his arrival in Sidney, Australia. Hansen arrived last Wednesday with a group of American combat soldiers and two WACs to begin a five day rest from the war in Vietnam. This is the first group of U.S. combat troops to be given a furlough in Australia since World War II. Until now GIs on rest and recreation leave were sent to Asian cities.

Scranton's Wife Says He'll Keep His Pledge

HARRISBURG (AP) — Mrs. Mary Scranton says her husband, former Gov. William W. Scranton, is going to keep his pledge to never again run for public office.

Mrs. Scranton was in Harrisburg yesterday for a meeting of the Committee of 100,000 Pennsylvanians for the Promotion of Economic Growth, an organization founded by her husband.

Although she stressed there was nothing political about her visit to the Capital, Mrs. Scranton did voice an opinion that there are "many able leaders in the Republican party" who would be strong presidential candidates in 1968.

Asked if her husband might be persuaded to enter the race, she replied, with a smile:

"No, not a chance."

Mrs. Scranton said she misses

Harrisburg and her former role as Pennsylvania's First Lady — but not too much.

"You always miss something you were closely associated with," she said, "but I was anxious to get out of public life."

She pointed out that she has taken an active interest in the Committee of 100,000 since its inception.

"I think this is one of the finest committees Bill (Gov. Scranton) formed," Mrs. Scranton said, "It is out of the rigid mold of most government committees."

The committee met to discuss candidates for awards to be presented to 11 outstanding Pennsylvanians at a dinner Nov. 17 in Pittsburgh.

The group also heard Gov. Shafer report on his recent trade promotion tour of Europe during a luncheon session.

Says LBJ's Observers Overlooked 'Atmosphere'

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A U.S.-sponsored observer of the South Vietnamese elections said yesterday President Johnson's blue ribbon panel overlooked government tactics during the campaign when it declared the vote was conducted fairly.

"My feelings about the actual casting of ballots were not too different from theirs," said Steward Meacham, peace education secretary of the American Friends Service Committee.

"But the atmosphere in which the ballots were cast was not considered at all by the President's committee," the former Presbyterian minister said.

One factor not taken into account was the power of district chiefs, said Meacham.

"The military always consults the district chiefs before they bomb a village to determine if it is friendly or unfriendly," said Meacham. "There was a very real fear that if a village voted against the Thieu-Ky ticket the district chief could consider this evidence they were 'unfriendly.'

"If the district chief said a village was a Viet Cong village, it might be wiped off the earth," Meacham said.

Meacham also charged "rigorous press censorship was again in force during the critical period of ballot counting" and therefore the results could not be trusted.

"In the United States an enterprising reporter would run down the many rumors of irregularity and pressure," he said, adding this was not allowed in South Vietnam. A fair election, he said "depends on the total atmosphere in which the balloting is done and the freedom to check and protest the results and to investigate irregularities after the election."

In Saigon one leading paper was closed down by government decree the day before the elections "and three others have been silenced since," said Meacham.

The AFSC, where he has worked since 1952, has been a strong proponent of U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam.

Founded by members of the Society of Friends (Quakers), the group is independent of the religious body and sent medical aid to both North and South Vietnam.

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
ROME — Roman Catholic prelates of the world hierarchy, speaking in the presence of Pope Paul VI, described yesterday a document on doctrinal problems prepared in Rome as "negative" and "pessimistic" and "abstract."

The Pontiff, presiding as president of the historic first meeting of the synod of bishops called to advise him, heard cardinals and lower ranking churchmen call for establishment of a permanent commission of theologians in Rome to bring modern currents of theological speculation to the church at its center.

A recurring theme in the speeches of churchmen was that the Catholic Church, at least as represented in the document before them, seemed to be much more concerned with scholastic theology than with its basic mission of bearing Christian witness to the troubled modern world.

Questionnaires To Be Sent

Questionnaires will be sent out next Monday to the residents of Freehold Township and Bear Lake Boro to find out how they feel about the proposed community center for the area. They are being sent out by the Bear Lake — Lottsville — Wrightsville Community Action Group. It is asked that the questionnaires be returned to the group secretary, Donald W. Martin, by October 14, 1967. If anyone has not received a questionnaire by October 11, 1967 he should contact Martin.

Gives Views On Milk Issue

HARRISBURG — Sporadic and isolated attacks on Pennsylvania's milk control law are no reliable indication of the value of this program to the whole Commonwealth, the Pennsylvania State Grange declared today.

John W. Scott, master of the 61,000-member Grange, cautioned that unless the principle of price control including the regulation of re-sale prices is maintained, "major and irreparable harm" could result to all three segments of the milk industry—producer, dealer, and consumer.

"Moreover," he said, "what hurts the milk industry hurts also the state's agriculture and adversely affects the total economy of the whole state."

He pointed out that "sale of milk accounts for more than a third of the billion dollar cash income for Pennsylvania farmers. Milk is the state's No. 1 farm enterprise."

Scott said the direct sale of milk at cut prices by a few farmers in Pittsburgh "may be a satisfactory program for them, but it would be neither practical nor feasible throughout the state."

He was referring, he indicated, to the recent opening of milk stores in that city for the sale of milk as "petfood." He termed this a "mere refuge for circumventing, and harassing, necessary law enforcement activities of the state's Milk Control Commission."

A great number of milk consumers, he insisted, prefer home delivery of milk, as at present. Farms, generally, are geared to wholesaling their milk. This makes dealer processing and delivery essential, he added.

Milk, he pointed out, is "produced in Pennsylvania under state-enforced sanitary regulations. It is a highly sensitive, highly perishable food that can be safely processed for consumers only by competent technicians under exacting conditions."

"These requirements," he stated, "plus the fact that milk is a diet essential for people of all ages, together with its relation to our economy—both rural and urban, places this commodity in the category of public need. Its proper supervision by the state, with appropriate regard for producer, dealer, and consumer, therefore, is imperative and in the public interest."

October 15 White Cane Safety Day

The white cane has been adopted by statutes in all of the 50 states as the official signaling device for blind pedestrians. In proclaiming October 15 as White Cane Safety Day, Governor Raymond P. Shafer is reminding motorists of the state of their obligation to use extreme caution at the signal of a raised white cane.

The state law protects the blind pedestrian carrying a raised cane or being guided by a guide dog when he wishes to cross a street or highway, at an intersection or crosswalk. Drivers who violate the White Cane Law are subject to a fine of $25 and costs.

The Pennsylvania Association for the Blind urges motorists to become familiar with the White Cane Law. Through the cooperation of all motorists, blind people will be able to travel upon the streets with greater ease and safety.

The Pennsylvania Association for the Blind will send you a free copy of the law. Write to Box 1311, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

WARREN, PA., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1967

FOR COUNTY PUPILS

Report on Health Services

(TOMO Harrisburg Bureau) HARRISBURG -- Health services to pupils in Warren County schools cost $50,605.57 in the 1965-66 school term, the State Department of Health said yesterday.

Reimbursement in this amount from state funds has been made by the department to school districts in this county for these services.

Health services are provided in three different categories: nursing, costing $37,660.70; medical, $7,213.95 and dental $5,730.92.

Payments to school districts from state funds for these services are on a basis of $3.50 per pupil for nursing services; eighty cents per pupil for medical services and forty cents per pupil for dental services.

Health services are provided pupils of parochial and non-profit private schools as well as public school pupils. Services to pupils other than those in public schools are given through public schools. Payments from state funds for services to pupils outside public schools are made to public school districts.

Reimbursements from state funds to Warren County school districts for health services during the indicated school term were as follows:

Warren Borough, $10,015.43; Allegheny Valley, $1,935.07; Bear Lake Borough, $159.80; Brocken Valley, $7,500.50; Conewango Township, $2,263.51; Elk Township, $214.50; Glade Township, $1,013.00; Northern Area, $7,187.35; Pleasant Township, $1,132.50; Sheffield Area, $2,701.95; Tidioute Area, $1,937.37; Warren Area, $14,484.39 and Watson Township, $60.20.

Six Pleas Entered

In Court

Six pleas were entered in open court arraignment yesterday before Judge Alexander C. Flick Jr. Four men pleaded guilty to charges filed, two others innocent.

The not guilty pleas were entered by Dan Robert Weirich, RD 1, Clarendon, to charges of malicious mischief, burglary and larceny; and Sam Salapek, 191 Scott st., Warren, failure to give information at the scene of an accident. Salapek re-arraigned before the judge.

It is hoped all parents will consider the importance of obtaining immunization, and seek to safeguard their children by attending one of the clinics.

Measles vaccine is expensive, and contributions to help defray clinic costs are welcome, says Dr. Verville. However, none will be refused immunization because of inability to contribute.

Enrollment forms will be distributed to parents of children.

000 children in Warren County between ages one and 12 years. This group is most prone to contracting nine-day measles. Many of these children have had measles, or have received immunization from private physicians, or from state operated health clinics.

For the remaining children, susceptible to the disease, the Warren County Medical Society and the Pennsylvania Department of Health are holding this measles immunization program for their protection.

Dr. Edward Verville, chairman of the measles vaccine program, announced the plans this week.

Dr. Verville adds that measles is not a harmless childhood disease, but often a serious one, having caused the deaths of 51 children in Pennsylvania over the past four years. In addition, many children have, as a result of measles, developed crippling disabilities.

It is hoped all parents will consider the importance of obtaining immunization, and seek to safeguard their children by attending one of the clinics.

Barbados, farthest east of the West Indies, achieved full independence in 1966.

The first players were elected to baseball's Hall of Fame in 1936.

Two other cases scheduled for arraignment yesterday were continued.

The American Nursing Home Association sent a three-man team to testify before the Senate Finance Committee, Sept. 22 as the committee wound up its hearings on HR 12080, the House-passed version of the Social Security amendments of 1967.

Heading the team was President Ed Walker and the two chief spokesmen for the association, David R. Mosher, Region III vice president and the Rev. August Hoeger, executive director of the Evangelical Lutheran Good Samaritan Society, which operates 120 non-profit nursing homes, homes for the aged and hospitals, principally throughout the Midwest and West.

Mosher told the committee that nursing homes are saving taxpayers tens of millions of dollars. He noted that every day a patient spends in a nursing home instead of a hospital represents dramatic savings to the taxpayer since nursing home costs are only one-third to one-half of hospital costs.

Mosher also scored as unrealistic, advance Social Security Act estimates of $25 million to $50 million for the cost of the ECF program under Medicare in the first year. He said that utilizing SSA's own estimates of admissions and lengths of stay (which were too conservative), the cost of the program would have been at least $150 million. Both the length of stay and the number of admissions estimates have proved to be too low, he pointed out.

Throughout its testimony, the Association emphasized the growing role of the nursing home in institutional health care and said that in the future this role would increase not only for Medicare and Medicaid beneficiaries but "for patients of all ages, who after surgery or serious illness, need nursing care and a period of convalescence without all the other costly services and facilities that a hospital must maintain."

Prior to the appearance before the committee, ANHA had nursing home leaders from committee members' states visit with the senators, and in virtually all cases, they reported receiving assurances of support.

DEMONSTRATES AXE THROWING

val. He will also give demonstrations of chopping, log rolling, chain sawing, crosscut sawing and other woodmen's skills.

Shafer Signs Scholarship Measure for $34.7 Million

HARRISBURG (AP) — The $34.7 million scholarship bill was signed into law yesterday by Gov. Shafer, who used the occasion to renew his fiscal feed with Democrats in the General Assembly.

Shafer blamed the Democrats for delaying enactment of the bill, which was approved by the legislature only after passage of an increase in the corporate net income tax to finance it.

"The major responsibility for this delay rests squarely on the shoulders of Democratic members and Senate, whose leaders adopted a party policy of opposing the new revenues this state must have to provide such vital programs," Shafer said in a statement.

"The delay in passage of the scholarship program should remind all concerned Pennsylvanians that many other essential programs are being held up because the Democratic Party policy in the General Assembly is to continue to oppose new revenue measures," Shafer said.

"Pennsylvanians should not forget that our hospitals and many colleges and universities are still waiting for the assistance they must have from us if they are to serve us well."

In addition to the $31.5 million for scholarships, the appropriation provides $2.1 million to assist colleges in securing federal student aid funds and $1.1 million for administration of the scholarship-loan program.

The Higher Education Assistance Agency awarded 23,147 new scholarships totaling $15.1 million, which went, for the most part, to 1967 high school graduates. At the same time, the agency renewed the scholarships of 21,632 upper classmen, who received $15.3 million.

The scholarships, awarded on the basis of ability and need, ranged between $200 and $1,200, the average grant being $675. Statistics provided by the agency showed that most of the students receiving state aid attended colleges and universities in Pennsylvania, although they are permitted to go out of state, if they choose.

Closely allied with the scholarship program is the loan program, under which the state guarantees loans to students made by banks and other approved lending institutions at 6 per cent interest. The federal government pays 3 per cent and the student the other 3.

The Higher Education Assistance Agency said there currently were 64,346 loans outstanding totaling $56.4 million, with more than enough funds on hand to guarantee them on a 1 to 10 ratio. Many loan recipients also received scholarships. The loan program was started in 1964, the scholarship program in 1966.

In addition, the new law, effective immediately, qualifies 18 other counties for 40 per cent loans. They previously had been eligible for 30 per cent financing.

WELL NOW, HERE'S SOMETHING A BIT DIFFERENT — It seems that the Garland Volunteer Fire Department held a potato sale last year and it was so successful in raising funds for the maintenance of the department that the volunteer firemen are having another one this year. This time it is labeled the "Annual Potato Sale" and will take place tomorrow from 1 to 6 p. m., rain or shine, at the Garland Carnival Grounds. The potatoes are from the Troyer Farm and will sell for: 50 lbs., $2.100 lbs., $4; but, on sales of 250 lbs. or more, there will be a 10 percent discount. An extra this year will be Troyer Farm potato chips selling from 10 cent bags to 99 cent tubs.

AN OPEN HOUSE will be held this Sunday at the Lutheran Home in Kane honoring its first anniversary. All area residents are invited to tour this not only gracious, but spacious and beautiful homelike setting for the care of the elderly. The home is sponsored by the Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia Synod of the Lutheran Church in America. Refreshments will be served by the Home Auxiliary.

FOLLOWING AN EXAMPLE SET BY JACQUELINE KENNEDY when she was First Lady of the White House, our own present First Lady of the State of Pennsylvania, Mrs. Raymond P. Shafer, is appealing for gifts of authentic antique furnishings for Pennsylvania's new Executive Mansion, now under construction at Front and Maclay Streets in Harrisburg. The chairman of the committee in charge, Mrs. Richard K. Mellon of Pittsburgh, (Mrs. Shafer is honorary chairman) notes that the primary needs include two oversized Oriental rugs or "palace" proportions; authentic antique tables; chairs; chests; lowboys; clocks; and so forth of the 1730-1825 period — Also, oil paintings of the same period, preferably relating to Pennsylvania or the work of Pennsylvania artists of that period. The committee has decided to undertake the furnishing of the Grand Hall, the Reception Hall and the Drawing Room of the Georgian-style mansion. The committee is hopeful that organizations, clubs or individuals will be interested in donating the furnishings — Mrs. Mellon added that all such donations will have to be approved for authenticity and appropriateness by the Consultant Committee. It would be most helpful, she said, if prospective donors could send a 5 x 7 inch photograph of the article offered, along with its description and information of historical background. Address: Mrs. Richard K. Mellon, chairman, at the William Penn Memorial Museum, Harrisburg, Penna., 17108.

FINAL TABLEAU AT ZONTA FASHION SHOW

Near Capacity Audience
Views Zonta Fashion Show

A near capacity audience was treated to a fashion show which put on display clothes that were greeted with enthusiastic acceptance and later described as beautiful beyond description. The show "Portraits in Fashion" took place on Wednesday evening in the auditorium of Beatty Junior High School. Stage decorations included two large portrait frames to set off the costumes worn by the models. Through the courtesy of Girton Flower Shop and Ekeys, colorful arrangements of chrysanthemums and palms ornamented the stage, and two topiary trees flanked the runway. All clothes were from Levinson Brothers, as was the lounge used in the stage settings by Mrs. Geraldine Nelson, stage decoration chairman.

All jewelry worn by the models was from Isabelle's Specialty Shoppe including the beautiful beaded bags.

The costumes and ensembles displayed were for day and evening wear; coats and hats featured the luxurious Dr. Zhivago look. For the pre-teens, Martha Maclaren and Julie Fino showed the appropriate look in fashion for this fall.

In the final moments of the show a bridal scene was staged which drew much applause. Sara Giffre was the bride, and to the left in the picture above may be seen Sandra Mazzu, and at the right, Jane Norris, the bridal attendants.

An important part of the evening was the entertainment by The Instigators, David Reynolds, Paul Mahan, Bill Crozier and Steve Cruickshank, Warren Barbershoppers' quartet. They sang: Back In Those Days; Just In Case You Changed Your Mind; The Umbrella Man; I Can't Give You Anything But Love, Baby; and concluded with, Please Don't Talk About Me When I'm Gone.

Ann LandersHoly Redeemer
Altar-Rosary
Society Meeting

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several days ago I was between buses in a strange city 350 miles from home. I turned my back in the washroom and someone stole my purse. There I was without a cent to my name, no identification and no bus ticket.

I went to the man in charge of the bus station and explained my plight. He let me use his phone to call three organizations. I could get no help from any of them. Then I phoned the Salvation Army. A friendly voice said, "You are only three blocks from us. Come on over."

The only credentials they required was that I was a human being. They gave me a hot meal, a clean bed for the night and helped me contact my family. Then they gave me money and sent me on my way.

I realized for the very first time that the Salvation Army is something more than a bunch of beggars in slightly old-fashioned uniforms—"do-gooders" who pass tambourines on street corners and ring cow bells over a kettle at Christmas. They are people who care about people. I say God bless them.

DEAR GRATEFUL: I say God bless them, too. Over the years I have received countless letters from readers who have related similar incidents. This kind-hearted organization deserves the support of all of us. They never turn away a needy person.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am nearly 18 years old and have never had a date. I am nice looking, have a good figure and make top grades in school, so it's not that I am dumb or ugly. When I tell you that I have been asked out dozens of times but am afraid to say yes, you will probably say I am batty.

Yesterday a very nice fellow from school asked if he could call me for a date. I snapped back, "Don't bother. I'm not interested."

Ann, I wanted to say yes so bad I almost died, but I just couldn't. I can't afford psychiatry and my mother is unreachable. Help me. OLD MAID FOR SURE

DEAR SURE: Go back to that boy and apologize for your abruptness. Let him know you've changed your mind and you'd like to go out with him. And do it TODAY. You recognize your problem and now is the time to face it.

DEAR ANN: Our oldest son was killed in a car accident eight months ago. His widow was left with two small children. We always got along with her and during our mutual period of bereavement we gave her all the help we could. The minister seemed to be her greatest source of solace and we were grateful. But now she is very cold to us and spends all her time working in the church.

Last week she wrote us a letter saying she could not bring the children to our home because my husband smokes. She said she cannot take her children to her own parents' home for the same reason. Smoking is against her religion and she has become a fanatic.

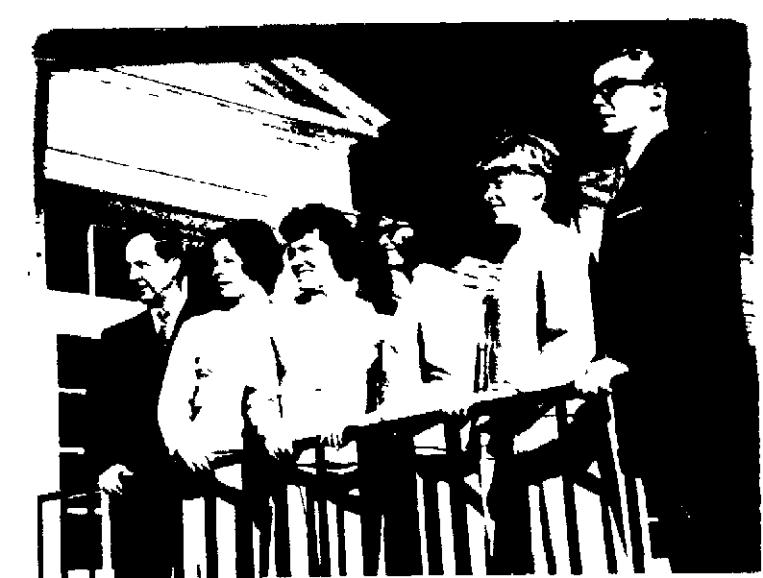

It is bad enough that we miss our son. Now must we be deprived of seeing his children? Please tell us what to do.

HEARTBROKEN GRANDPARENTS

DEAR GRANDPARENTS: It must be obvious to you that your daughter-in-law has become unbalanced. Perhaps some compromise can be worked out until the poor woman gets back on the track. Can you assure her that your husband will not smoke in the children's presence if she brings them to your home? Will she allow you and your husband to come to her home where, of course, he would not smoke? Enlist the help of her minister. He could be your best ally.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamp and self-addressed envelope.

Opening lead: King of ♦ Convinced by West's two club overcall that the missing honor strength was adversely located, South nevertheless managed to salvage his six spade contract by uncovering a plan that made adequate provision for his pessimistic conclusions

West opened the king of clubs and dummy put up the ace. A superficial analysis of the combined holdings suggests that declarer must win both red suit finesses in order to make this contract. However, South observed a method that allowed for not only one, but both kings being off side

A club was ruffed in the closed hand and the king of spades drew the opposing trump. Now South cashed the ace of diamonds and then continued with the deuce. If West puts up the king, it will establish two discards for declarer on the queen and jack of diamonds. He can dispose of both the queen and nine of hearts and claim the rest of the tricks.

West decided to sacrifice his sure trick in the hope of getting back two in return. He, therefore, played the six of diamonds and, when dummy put up the jack, it held the trick. A diamond was ruffed, the North hand reentered with the seven of spades and the queen of diamonds was trumped to complete the stripping process in the side suits.

A small spade was led to the jack and a heart was returned East put up the jack in a desperate effort to prevent declarer from ducking a cheap trick to West. South covered with the queen and West was in with the king. He could not return a club without giving his opponent a ruff and discard. The forced heart lead away from the ten into South's ace-nine provided the latter with a free finesse and his contract.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars. FOR FRIDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1967.

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—Better-than-ordinary advantages but some are "tricky," may require special handling, better-than-ordinary understanding. Strive for overall effect; stress good judgment.

TURUS (April 21 to May 21)—If you do not work a matter out one way, there is always another means. Do not be disturbed by momentary obstacles, opposition; they always pop up. Some fine opportunities.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—You may lose a little here, gain some there, but the overall picture is one of advancement. A strong Mercury day stimulates ingenuity, alert moves, quick thinking.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—Mild influences. The day will be largely what you make of it. Yes, you will have help from the outside if you donate your finest services in full, not hesitating.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—Not too much planetary help, but your own attitude and outlook can greatly influence results, which can be hearty or just-so-so. Watch economics, home issues.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—Stick to your job, let others do theirs. When asked for assistance, step forward capably, but only when asked. Do not become involved in others' affairs unwittingly.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—Venus stimulates your talents now, promises the cooperation of coworkers.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—Favored for fast-er advancement: Business matters, research, aviation and theatrical experiments; scholars, scientists; statesmanship.

YOU BORN TODAY are motivated by good will and a desire to see that all get a square deal. You may take up art, literature, higher education, children's welfare work as an avocation, and eventually any one of these could become a second career. You will work hard for loved ones. Libra stands for forthrightness, even balance, artistic qualities, you enjoy socials, good fellowship, life. Birthdate of: George Westinghouse, Amer. inventor; Jenny Lind, Swed. singer.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22)—A clear-cut display of your wares and ideas would be appreciated. Follow the messages of your intuition and foresight.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—Influences somewhat mixed. There may be more than meets the eye in some situations. Be alert, but tactful.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—It may be somewhat difficult to keep matters in line now, but there is ample room for the diligent and knowing worker to succeed. Big growth potential.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—If investments were not too good, that is no reason to "go for broke" now. But neither does it mean tightening up, which disrupts healthy expansion. Use experience as your guide.

Time For Communication on Home Front

SAN ANTONIO, TEX. — One of the persistent paradoxes around the White House these days is that the men who think the President has not been communicating well with the American people have been urging him to communicate more. However, when he finally — and often reluctantly — does, he invariably stimulates a discussion that raises as many questions as he tried to answer.

That has now happened with the subject of Vietnam, which Johnson addressed at length last weekend for the first time in many months.

He did it, the President said, "to explain to all the people some of the things that I felt had not gotten through to them."

North Vietnam, he insisted, though it questioned the perseverance of the American people, thoroughly understood his position and terms. But many "sincere and patriotic" Americans, he acknowledged, though they must recognize his determination, harbor doubts about the value of the war and raise difficult questions about how it should be conducted.

Why the enemy should understand what many of his own people do not, the President did not say. One answer seems to lie in what he could not say without greatly embarrassing the leaders of the Soviet Union, namely that they have grasped the situation, tried to prod Hanoi into a gesture that would produce negotiations, and failed. A second explanation, which

Johnson could not offer without embarrassing his own administration, seems to be that Moscow and Hanoi and other Communist capitals have learned from experience to take the President at his word while a sizable number of Americans complain that they cannot, or simply will not.

Was there any response to his Vietnam speech from Southeast Asia, the President was asked. No, he said, after some probing of the questioner's intent, "But if some rancher from Australia had wired me congratulations, I wouldn't want to be caught in a credibility gap by saying I hadn't heard from that part of the world."

A thousand explanations have been offered for the apparent mistrust of the President and he is clearly sensitive to the problem. To those who work with him at close range, one of the main reasons for this mistrust is usually overlooked.

As he demonstrated again in the Vietnam speech, Johnson simply does not like to step down in public from the role of President of all the people to the role of contender against some of the people. He thus smoothes in assertions of national unity his side of a particularly heated policy argument, even when he has complete confidence in his view.

Johnson did not take on the members of Congress who have accused him of misusing and perverting their three-year-old sanction of the use of force in Southeast Asia, contained in their "Gulf of Tonkin resolution." He merely requoted their resolution without recalling the different circumstances of the time, apparently because he did not wish to emphasize his basic view that the responsibility for decision belongs primarily to the President and not really to the legislators.

The President did not rebut the many appeals that he adopt an enclave strategy, though the battering the Marines have been taking for several weeks at Con Thien has dramatized his worst fears of what would happen to such enclaves.

He did not argue the case against another unilateral cessation in the bombing of North Vietnam, although again Con

Thien could demonstrate the military need for bombing the enemy's otherwise inaccessible artillery across the demilitarized zone in North Vietnam.

And he did not argue the case against bombing some additional targets, as the military leaders want. For the moment, the President does not wish to risk hitting more civilian targets or foreign shipping in North Vietnam's ports.

But he may yet wish to pause again or to bomb harder and so he asserted the present, in-between tactics without debating any of the critics.

Johnson described "steady" progress in the war by citing gains in the number of South
